Would You Accept This Push Notification Request?

Push notification authentication attacks are on the rise, and cybercriminals are looking to you to grant them access to your organization's network.

⚠️ Your reaction to a push notification request impacts your security.

Why you should not accept:

- Lose access to data
- Have data stolen
- Have private data publicly exposed
- Spread malicious software

What to do after you reject:

- Contact your security team
- Change your login credentials

If you suspect any abnormal push notification authentication requests, contact your security team.
